100X Harvest Kambera and Ndokwa New Testament Recordings February 2023

Faith Comes By Hearing records and freely provides God's Word. Because of you, Kambera and Ndokwa speakers join the 6.7 billion people in 190 countries with access to an Audio Bible. We rejoice with you that future listeners can engage Scripture in a language and format they deeply comprehend. Thank you for making the Kambera and Ndokwa New Testament recordings possible.

Sumba, an island of Indonesia, is home to 240,000 Kambera speakers. Known as the Marapu people, they earn a living in the agriculture and fishing industries. This ancestral language is primarily preserved in spoken form. Consequently, printed Bibles are scarce, and the primary means to access God's Word in Kambera will be an Audio Bible.

God prepared the way for the Kambera New Testament. Faith Comes By Hearing's field partner coordinated the recording in partnership with a local pastor and his wife. Called to pioneer the church among Marapu believers, this couple openly worshiped side by side until others took notice, God added to their numbers, and a congregation formed. Today, more than 700 churches exist on the island of Sumba.

The field recording team began the project and completed their work in six weeks. As sometimes happens, we discovered some errors in review. Our studio technicians will work to ensure that the recording is complete and meets quality standards before the Scripture release. We look forward to the day Kambera speakers deeply comprehend the Bible in their heart language.

God abundantly provided so that 150,000 Ndokwa speakers in Nigeria can have His audible Word.

The typical route to the designated recording site in the town of Agbor included multiple security checkpoints. Recording coordinators praised God for a driver who made the trip without complication. With excited readers and a recording schedule quickly established, and prayers of thanksgiving offered, the team got to work. Despite pauses due to script issues, heavy rain, and power outages, the Ndokwa New Testament recording finished on time.

Readers and proofreaders expressed joy at the opportunity to vocalize Scripture at last. As each one read their passages, the wait to speak truth in the language of their dreams and prayers was over.

Because of you, Kambera and Ndokwa speakers will clearly hear God's Word. These New Testaments join Faith Comes By Hearing's repository of 1,759 languages and counting. Together, we trust God for the outcome of your faithfulness and joyfully anticipate Scripture engagement for future Bible listeners in Indonesia and Nigeria.

100X Harvest, thank you for your commitment to share God's Word in audio with Kambera and Ndokwa speakers.
